Warranty Coverages

Should the CB Series or RG Series battery fail within the first 180 days from the date of installation or 300 hours of operation, whichever occurs first, it will be replaced by the distributor free of charge to the customer.

As a reciprocating engine starting battery or as a standby battery for essential power, the Concorde aircraft battery is warranted for two years (730 days) from the date of installation or for 1200 hours of operation, whichever occurs first. Should the battery fail after 180 days or 300 hours, but within two years (730 days) or 1200 hours of operation, the battery will be replaced or credit issued for a pro rata amount based on the days or operating hours of useful service life, whichever is greater.

As a turbine engine starting battery, the Concorde aircraft battery is warranted one year (365 days) from the date of installation or for 600 hours of operation, whichever occurs first. Should the battery fail after 180 days or 300 hours of operation, but within one year (365 days) or 600 hours of operation, the battery will be replaced or credit issued at a pro rata amount based on the days of useful service life, whichever is greater.

Out of Box Failures / Minimal time in service: Batteries submitted for warranty as "out of box" failures or with less than 90 days and/or 100 hours of operation may be subject to factory inspection prior to warranty credit being issued. In the event laboratory evaluation is required, Concorde Battery Corporation will issue a Return Material Authorization Number (RMA) so the battery can be returned freight prepaid to the factory for evaluation. If the battery fails to meet its minimum specifications, credit due will be issued and ground freight charges refunded. (Freight bill copy must be presented for credit to be issued). In the event the battery meets test specifications, warranty credit will be denied and the battery will be returned at the customer's expense.
